

Biography of Jonathan Birinyi

Jonathan is currently an Acting Training Development Officer with Emergency Management Ontario. His focus is on developing courses and training products for Ontario's Incident Management System curriculum.

Jonathan's interest in emergency management began while volunteering with the Canadian Red Cross' Disaster Management Program. From 2008 to 2010, he was the lead volunteer for the Durham Region Branch and was involved with events such as the Secord hydro vault explosion, the Wellesley Street apartment fire, and the Oshawa train derailment.

In the summer of 2008 Jonathan participated in an internship with the City of Vaughan and assisted the city during the August 2008 tornadoes.

Jonathan is currently a graduate student in York University's Disaster & Emergency Management program. His research focus is on Critical Incident Trauma. Recently, Jonathan completed Humber College's Teaching Effectiveness program.

JONATHAN'S IMS 910 TRAINING IS ON APRIL 7th AT THE CENTRE IN DRYDEN

IMS 910 — Incident Management System Instructor

This course will prepare you to deliver and administer the IMS 100 facilitator-led and/or IMS 200 course in your jurisdiction/organization. Those completing the program will be registered as provincial IMS instructors.

Duration: 4 hours

Pre-requisites:

- IMS 200
- Designated as the individual responsible for IMS training for their organization